

CANDIDATE for TREASURER

Saif Haq, Ph.D.

Statement

Architectural design requires both creativity and research. While the act of research can take many forms, it is only useful to others when collated, packaged, and distributed. Application of research IS in the design moves of architects. It then follows - that there needs to be support for research, vetting the knowledge produced, providing appropriate venues for sharing, and opportunities for retrieval as necessary by designers and researchers. In scholarly terms this means peer review, presentation and publication opportunities, and indexing in major databases. All of these are established purviews of ARCC. In the last few years ARCC has focused on supporting research with grants and awards; this group is growing, and their contributions are now being recognized. Financial management of these multiple endeavors requires patience and attention to details. I have set up a system that tracks income and expenses, coordinates with regulatory agencies and promptly deals with taxation issues. I am proud of my humble role in this organization and hope for the opportunity to continue as treasurer.
